NB:

Those taking part in events based on active outdoor recreation do so under Scottish access rights (see <http://www.outdooraccess-scotland.com>) and the Code emphasises, under these circumstances, that individuals must take responsibility for their own actions. Event organisers may need to obtain public liability insurance before any event takes place and land managers may require this as a condition of granting permission. Public liability insurance covers injury, loss or damage to third parties due to negligence and the extent of insurance required will depend on the potential risks involved. Event organisers should also make clear to participants what insurance cover is in place so that they can consider their own personal situation. This is a complex subject and further advice should be taken from specialist advisers such as insurance brokers.
