2011 Census – Council Ward Profiles

The following profiles provide a two page statistical summary of 2011 Census data for each of the 17 multimember council wards. Each profile contains 18 tables covering a variety of social, economic and demographic topics. The tables were designed to provide basic information for local areas but are not exhaustive. More detailed information on many of the topics covered may be available in other Council publications. (Background - Census 2011 - City of Edinburgh Council). Detailed census tables for many standard geographies, including council wards, are also available on the Scottish Census website: <http://www.scotlandscensus.gov.uk/en/>

Notes

Census Output areas are the smallest areas for which census data are available, typically containing around 100 people or 50 households. The statistics reported in the areas profiles are derived by aggregating the data for census output areas based upon a 'best fit' approach. That is, all of the data relating to an output area is assigned to the local geography that contains its population weighted centroid. Output areas are not split between geographies, even if they cross a boundary.

Table 1: Key statistics.

The area reported in the profile is the sum of the census output areas rather than the actual area of the geography. As such, it may not exactly match the area reported elsewhere. As the population figures are also derived from summed OA data, the density figure is more accurate than if the actual areas were used.

Table 2: Age structure.

Data on males/females by single year of age has not yet been published. This table will be updated when the data become available.

Table 3: Household composition.

The figures for '1 Adult plus children' may include a small number of households with no adults resident.

Table 6: Household size by number of rooms.

The figures for Overcrowded household spaces and under-occupied household spaces relate to households with an occupancy rating of -2 or less and +2 or more respectively. Occupancy rating is a derived figure for the number of rooms a household needs based upon the ages, genders and relationships of the residents. +2 means a household has 2 or more rooms than it requires. -2 means that a household has at least 2 rooms less than it requires.

Table 8: Transport to work.

The percentage figure calculation excludes those working from home.

Train travel includes train, light rail, underground and tram travel.

Table 9: Dwellings.

A dwelling is a physical building or part of a building such as a house, bungalow or flat. A household space relates to the part of a dwelling occupied by a single household (i.e. a small number of dwellings are shared between households).

Table 11: Socio-economic classification

The classifications used are the standard National Statistics Socio Economic Classifications (NS-Sec)

Table 15: Industry of Employment.

Classifications are based upon the Standard Industry Classification of employer (SIC).

Primary Industries include the divisions; 'Agriculture forestry and fishing', 'Mining and quarrying', 'Electricity, gas, steam and air conditioning supply' and 'Water supply, sewerage, waste management and remediation activities'.

Finance/business services includes the divisions; 'Financial and insurance activities', 'Real estate activities', 'Profession, scientific and technical activities' and 'Administrative and support service activities'.

Table 16: National identity

'Other UK identities' includes any combination of UK identities specified that are not covered by the preceding categories.
